1.1 Decision criteria for the granting of accreditation

• The application documents are complete.
• The curriculum meets the minimum requirements of the framework curriculum of anthroposophic body therapies. It comprises at least 1000 hours and builds on a state-recognised basic body therapy profession.
• The training or further training concludes with an internal examination of the skills and knowledge acquired. This comprises a written, an oral and a practical part.
• The objectives of the training can be achieved by the means and methods specified.
• The training fees and premises are appropriate.

2 Qualification of the auditors

All auditors have the Medical Section's auditor certificate and are obliged to take part in regular internal further training.

This is also based on the IKAM accreditation procedure, which is uniformly regulated by the Medical Section at the Goetheanum, Dornach, CH across all professional groups.

3 Arbitration board

An arbitration board shall be appointed as required.

Their representatives are:

- one representative of each of the requesting training providers
- one auditor from their own professional field

- one auditor from another occupational field
- one IKAM occupational coordinator

4 Schedule of fees

The current schedule of fees is published on the website for anthroposophic body therapies.

5 Office

The IKAM – Accreditation Office, Department Body Therapies works closely with representatives of the respective professional group / method, the educational institutions and the leadership of the Medical Section.

It is managed by the Body Therapies Coordination.
