Life forces now!

Conference languages
DE/EN

The life forces / etheric forces are the topic of this year's international eurythmy therapy specialist conference. How did Ita Wegman and Rudolf Steiner view the importance of the life forces 100 years ago, and what do we experience today? Are life forces and etheric forces the same thing?

A hundred years ago, Ita Wegman and Rudolf Steiner published Extending Practical Medicine. Ingrid Hermansen will give us an introduction to Chapter 18. In his lecture, Matthias Girke portrays how Ita Wegman and Rudolf Steiner describe the etheric there.

This year too, in addition to moving together, the focus will be on the practical experiences of colleagues around the world and the joint discussion of these. In the workshops we will look at different aspects of the life forces: our sources of life forces, the perception of healthy life forces, the life forces in the development of the child, and the life forces that we encounter in the therapy room.

We look forward to meeting you and hearing about your many different experiences!

Warm regards from the preparation team

We look forward to your participation in the annual conference of the Medical Section at the Goetheanum. The conference is divided into two parts: specialist conferences of various professional groups in anthroposophic medicine and the multiprofessional conference.

On Thursday from 11.15 to 12.30 (between the two parts), School work for members of the School of Spiritual Science, an introduction to the work of the School open to all, as well as spiritual deepening work is planned. Both the participants of the specialist conferences and those of the multiprofessional conference are free to take part in this unit; it does not have to be booked separately.

We would, of course, be delighted to welcome you as guests for the whole of the conference. You can, however, also just register for one specialist conference or for the multiprofessional conference. Throughout the whole conference, the lunches are included in the conference fee. The evening meal can be booked separately as required.

The lectures of the conference will be translated into German, French, Italian, Spanish, Russian and English. For the specialist conferences, please note the languages listed in the respective programme.

The certificates of attendance will certify the further training points approved by the GAÄD and VAOAS.
